

Keep learning

Study Groups.

Many livestock farmers already have extensive experience with VMS and DelPro, but it can be very helpful to share their knowledge with colleagues.

There's also a significant risk of farm blindness because VMS users often use a few of the same lists from DelPro and can't easily share experiences with colleagues.

You're used to a certain way of working. But with a different perspective on the same work, you might find a more convenient and effective way of working.

And of course, new VMS users are constantly joining who are eager to learn with, but also from, colleagues.

Our presence and expertise can be valuable in this regard.

New ideas, new experiences, and different knowledge provide greater insights!

Those who are open to this will continue to develop.

Study groups, meetings, and always keep brainstorming, because:

You're never too old or too wise to learn...

And when you share knowledge, it actually increases!